

AI Transcribing Tools Consent

During today's consultation, I'll be using a secure AI transcription tool to help capture our discussion and create accurate clinical notes in real time. This tool listens live during the appointment and transcribes what is said, but it does not record or store any of the audio. No data is ever saved on any device, and nothing is kept once the consultation ends.

The information is securely processed in real time through servers located in New Zealand or Australia, which comply fully with the New Zealand Privacy Act 2020 and the Health Information Privacy Code 2020. These regulations ensure your health information is treated with the utmost confidentiality and care.

This transcription is used solely to support the consultation and your medical care. Would you be comfortable with me using this tool today?

You are welcome to decline, and we can proceed with traditional note-taking if you prefer.
